ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

I am grateful to my current Supervisor Prof. Dr. Shyam K. Kaushik, Asst. Dean, Professor, Faculty of Law, NLU, Jodhpur, for guiding me on the jurisprudential nuances of personhood in law and introducing the required structure and clarity in approach while preparing the thesis.

I acknowledge the contribution of my former supervisor Dr. Gargi Chakrabarti, Associate Professor, Faculty of Law, Dharmashastra National Law University, Jabalpur, whose relentless efforts ensured that I stay abreast with the current developments concerning my topic. The numerous enriching sessions with Dr. Chakrabarti were instrumental in removing conceptual doubts on inventorship, authorship and ownership in respect of patent and copyright laws.

I extend my heartfelt thanks to Ms. Manika Sharma, Assistant Professor, NMIMS School of Law, Bangalore, for sharing her expertise on the technological part of artificial intelligence in my endeavour to figure out the presence of personhood from the technical perspective.

Last but not the least, I would like to thank Mr. Bajrang Singh, Office Management Staff, NLU, Jodhpur, who has always helped me out by communicating and keeping me informed about the important deadlines and submissions.
