

TABLE OF CONTENTS

S.No.	Chapter /Sub Heading	Page
1	Certificate	ii
2	Declaration	iii
3	Preface	iv
4	Acknowledgments	v-xi
5	Table of Abbreviations	xii-xx
6	Table of Contents	xxi-xxiv
7	Turnitin Report	xxv-xxxiii
I	Introduction and Synopsis	1.1-1.10
I.A	Background	1.1
I.B	Statement of Problem and Central Argument of the Dissertation	1.6
I.C	Research Objectives	1.7
I.D	Research Questions	1.7
I.E	Research Methodology	1.8
I.F	Chapterisation (Broad headings and tentative sub-topics as approved vide Pre-Submission presentation in October 2019)	1.9
II	Understanding Celebrity and the Value of Celebrity	2.1-2.51
II.A	Defining Celebrity: Attempts at a comprehensive understanding of what comprises “celebrity”	2.6
II.A.1.	Insights from Culture Studies and Persona Studies: What is celebrity personality?	2.6
II.A.2.	Celebrity as “well-knownness”: Public Identifiability and fame in the creation of celebrity personality	2.20
II.A.3	Are social Media Influencers and Content Creators, Celebrities?	2.27
II.B.	Celebrity as “commodity” and “consumption” – the marketable image of celebrity personality (economic associative value)	2.32
II.C.	Insights from legal theory: personality as ‘property’ versus personality as a stand-alone individual right (Some justifications for legal protection of celebrity personae)	2.44
II.D	Concluding observations: Legal protections for the commodified individual and celebrity	2.50
III	Copyright over personality traits	3.1-3.67

III.A	Fictional Characters: Copyright Eligibility and Ownership	3.3
III.A.1.	Stand-alone protection for fictional characters in American copyright law: eligibility and ownership	3.3
III.A.2	Authorship of characters in film and AV media: Do actors have copyright in Characters they portray under US Law?	3.12
III.A.3	Alternative to copyright for actors in fictional characters: US Law	3.15
III.A.4	India's tryst with character copyrightability and rights of actors in characters	3.20
	i. India's copyright law: A brief overview of the statute	3.20
	ii. Case Law evolution of a standard for fictional character copyrightability in India	3.22
	iii. Actors' rights in characters and performances in India: Is there a copyright over character portrayals?	3.27
III.B	The copyrightability of sports' celebration moves and other 'choreographic' moves: What rights does a celebrity sportsperson/ Celebrity performer have?	3.32
III.B.1.	The position in the USA : Is copyright the answer to claims over celebration moves?	3.32
III.B.2	The Indian position on copyright over 'moves' : Would sportspersons and other entertainers be able to make valid claims?	3.42
III.C	Tattoos and Body Art – Is the inker mightier than the body?	3.53
III.D	Conclusions for India: Lessons for Sunil's Guththi and Salman's Chulbul	3.66
IV	Trademarks Over Personality Traits	4.1-4.48
IV.A	Trademarks as a semiotic Sign and Celebrity Endorsers as embodying Semiotic Meanings	4.2

IV.B	Trademarks for Celebrities: Names, Symbols, Gestures and Other Indicia in USA	4.3
IV.B	i. Names as Trademarks and Use of famous names protected under Lanham Act	4.5
IV.B	ii. Other Indicia of Celebrity Personality and ‘Likeness’ as Trademarks: Lanham Act Protections and Registration Attempts	4.13
IV.C	India and Celebrity Trademarks: Statute and Case Law Guidance	4.25
IV.D	Special cases: Celebrity names as domain names - protected trademarks in India	4.31
IV.E	India and Celebrity Trademarks: Some illustrative case studies of registration attempts	4.38
V	The right against “Passing-Off” and unauthorised use of celebrity personality	5.1-5.22
V.A	Fame as Property : Australian courts on celebrities and unauthorised use of their persona	5.3
V.B	Extended Passing Off and Incremental misrepresentation tort: The UK Version	5.11
V.C	Endorsement v. Character-Publicity Merchandising: Celebrity Persona Passing Off experience in India	5.18
VI	The Right to Privacy and Breach of Confidence actions: Celebrity Status and diminishing private lives	6.1-6.52
VI.A	Privacy for Personality in the USA: Prosser’s torts and diminishing private lives	6.4
VI.B	English Courts on privacy violations as breach of confidence	6.11

VI.C	Right to one’s image in the Strasbourg Jurisprudence	6.28
VI.D	India and celebrity privacy: a tort law salad platter?	6.38
	i. Actions brought by the living	6.38
	ii. Dead bones and legendary souls: Privacy for deceased celebrities	6.45
VII	The Right of Publicity of the celebrity personality	7.1-7.67
VII.A	Right of Publicity in USA	7.4
	i. The “source” of law and the “elements” of the claim	7.4
	ii. Aspects of Identity: Direct Appropriation versus Evocative Appropriation	7.11
	iii. First Amendment and Right of Publicity: What types of “expressive” taking are protected?	7.26
	iv. Recent cases on Right of Publicity in likeness, phrases and tattoos	7.41
	Addendum: Important publication on Implications of Andy Warhol v Goldsmith copyright decision from USSC (‘AWF’) on Right of Publicity	7.43
VII.B	India and Celebrity ‘Personality’ Rights	7.44
	i. Early case law: A right of publicity is added to the torts for persona salad platter	7.44
	ii. India and Post Mortem Right of Publicity: Only Questions, no real answers	7.51
	iii. Right of Publicity gone rogue: Overreaching claims, Omnibus Orders and a ruined Salad Platter	7.56
	Addendum: Digital Collectibles v Galactus Funware	7.65
VIII	Conclusions and Suggestions: What Comprises India’s Personality Rights Umbrella – the Ingredients on the Salad Platter	8.1 – 8.11
IX	Bibliography	9.1-9.83